Good Grooming Chooses Miami

Greater Miami was chosen as the site of the nation's first "Good Grooming Assembly", an informal panel discussion and special events to educate proper grooming habits on young people. All of Greater Miami's public high and junior high schools attended as well as parochial and private schools, Barry College and the University of Miami.

The "Good Grooming Assembly" took place Saturday, January 24, at the Empress Hotel on Miami Beach with William Mennen, Jr. as the moderator and co-host with Scholastic Magazine.

"Miami was chosen for the assembly inaugural, because we found its teenage population to be among the nation's best-groomed," stated Mr. Mennen. The non-profit division of the Mennen Company, a men's toiletry firm, will do a series of "Good Grooming Assemblies" across the nation based on this one in Greater Miami, along with Scholastic Publications.

500 GUESTS ATTENDED!

Mayor Kenneth Oka, on behalf of Miami Beach, and Mayor Robert King High of Miami, introduced Mr. Mennen to the 500-600 guests—students, educators, and parents—and to the panel consisting of: David H. Amos, Personnel Director of National Airlines; Roslind Rush of Miami News; Eleanor Hart, Miami Herald; Richard Esen, Senior at the U. of Miami; Grace Saeanz, Junior from Edison High School; and Ben B. David, Dean of Men, U. of Miami.

The theme "Better Grooming for Better Citizenship" was conveyed to Greater Miami students by practical demonstrations and informal discussions between panel members, and audience participation.

VITAL FUNCTION!

"It is a vital function of the school, the parent, and those who mold the youth during other times. We are all well aware of how Russia is molding its youth—this is a challenge we must all meet for our nation's well being on every level," stated Mr. Mennen.

"Controversial form of dress, which may be sharp on campus, are bad business for students who want to get ahead. Educators, business, and civic leaders participating in these series of City-wide Good Grooming Assemblies, will impress upon young men and women the accepted standards of good grooming in the business and social world they must meet to make for success and confidence following graduation," concluded Mennen.

SHOW WAS FILMED!

Beginning at 2:00 P. M. on January 24th, the Good Grooming Assembly was filmed by WPST-TV for showing throughout Greater Miami schools and later to the nation.

Blood Plea Answered

When the mother of one of Hialeah High's chemistry teachers, Miss Wright, was in need of blood transfusions, the plea was immediately impressed upon the faculty and students. Mr. Robert Mohr took the names of nearly 25 possible donors and seven of those people went to give their blood. Six of those were accepted and so six pints of priceless blood were given in an hour of need.

Of course, more blood was needed because blood banks usually ask that two pints be donated for every pint given to a patient. But Hialeah did a great service with those six people. Only adults between the ages of 18 and 60 may give blood, but these people might be turned down because of disease, fainting spells, recent major surgery, or any other irregularity in health.

'Lo and Behold' Sure-Fire Hit

"Other years have seemed high-type plays," commented Mr. Joe White, drama director, "but this year's senior class has chosen the most terrific yet."

A three act comedy, "Lo and Behold" by John Patrick, has been chosen as this year's "sure-fire hit". Mr. John Patrick, author of last year's successful comedy, "The Curious Savage", also wrote "The Tea House of the August Moon", "The Hasty Heart", and a score of other hits.

shown by many T-Breds for "Lo and Behold", a big turn-out is expected. Casting is scheduled, so far, for February 3.

March 20 is the date set for the show and according to all sources, its going to be "equal to the best, but different from all others, so far".

In a review of the play, the New York Daily News stated, "Its idea is amusing and so are the players, and Patrick has learned the trick of inserting a big solid laugh line at the right moment."
