Senior Play Cast Optimistic

"How successful do you think the Senior Play will be this year, and what is your opinion of the cast?"

This question was asked among the actresses in this year's play.

When asked what she thought, Pam Ball, who plays Minnie, replied, "I think it's the best we've ever done and going to be terrific. Nobody should miss it. I think it's the best cast we could possibly have and they'll do justice to the play."

Another "Minnie," Sara Parise, said, "I think it will be very successful because of Mr. White's great directing. It'll probably be funnier than last year's play; and I'm happy to have a part in the play."

Jo Ann Bujold (Daisy) exclaims, "It's very good. Terrific, terrific!"

"I think it will be very successful because there was a big crowd for tryouts and they are encouraging others to see the play. I like all the kids in the play and think they are very good. In fact, I feel like an amateur beside the others. The rehearsals are progressing fine." These confident words were spoken by Julia Seiber who plays "Honey".

Senior Tests Finally Over

The placement of Hialeah High School's seniors among those of all high schools in Florida is an enormous task, but the job is done efficiently each year by the Senior Placement Test.

However, it does require time. Tests must be graded and scores must be recorded and announced.

Hialeah High's entire senior population crowded into the auditorium in shifts to take these tests during the week of February 16-20.

One test after another was conquered—mathematics, science, psychology, English, social studies—until the examiner, Mr. Robert Williams, leaned on the lectern and proclaimed, "After this test, it will all be over . . ."

And when it was ended, all the seniors who had come into the auditorium anxious or otherwise, left with their scores behind them.

Seniors Order Announcements

The '59ers are going to let the world know that they are going to be "out" soon. This is perhaps the reason you have seen so many seniors flocking to room 804. This is the spot for ordering announcements.

Announcements are a way of letting relatives and friends know that you have completed twelve years of hard work and are now starting on the road that leads to a happy future.

Also being ordered were thank you notes and personal name cards. The name cards will be used in the announcements as well as handed out to friends.

Senior Class Reveals Tentative Plans for Coming June Graduation

With another senior year drawing to a close the senior representatives have been planning the activities to celebrate graduation.

So far, a Senior Activities Day, Senior Banquet, Graduation, Prom, and Baccalaureate services have been discussed. Only tentative dates have been set, so far as location, that is not known at present.

Graduation ceremonies will commence at Dade County Auditorium on the afternoon of June 5.

Some seniors may wonder why "Senior Privileges" have not been pushed. Well, the reason is that they are either not respected or the seniors don't participate in them. A good example is the lunch room. The middle section of the east side is supposed to be senior section, but where are the seniors?

The various activities under discussion will be spread out over the remaining part of the year, so that everything doesn't come at once.

The prom will more than likely be May 16, and possibly at Hialeah Race Course, however, this is not at all definite.

Senior class meetings will be announced to the representatives in the T-Bred Topics, so please keep posted, because more cooperation must come from the seniors if the year is to be successful.

ANNUAL EDITOR, JOE GODFREY, shows Kathie Varner and George Ricker, "The 59ers" editors, the last shipment of the '59 Hi-Ways.

'59 Hi-Ways Shipped to Press

It's done. It's gone. At last the 1959 Hi-Ways is finished and the last pages sent to press.

The staff has worked hard under the leadership of Mrs. Alfreda Miller, but along with the work there was fun.

Joe Godfrey, the Hi-Ways editor, says this about the annual, "I thought that writing and making the yearbook was really a great experience. And I truly believe along with the rest of the staff it is the best yet."

The first sixteen pages went to press at the end of last year. In eight to ten weeks the staff will present the 1959 year book to the student body.

Church Every Sunday

By Janice Spence

You wouldn't believe what goes on at my house every Sunday morning before leaving for Sunday School. Of course, I must admit this might be exaggerated (just a little).

My mother must have a phobia about getting places on time. Because every time we have to go somewhere, especially to church, from the time we get up, until we are safely seated on the pew, she hurries us along.

To give you an idea of what I mean, for example, bright and early Sunday morning, about 6:00 a.m. mother cheerfully wakes the whole family so that we can be at church by 9:45. The fact that it takes only five minutes to get there has nothing to do with it.

Usually I am the first one to get up, since I am the only one she pulls the covers off. While she is cooking breakfast my Dad usually comes strolling in and asks what time it is, when I tell him it's almost 6:30 he usually hits the ceiling, it sure is a good thing he has a hard head.

When we are seated at the breakfast table, mother realizes my little brother isn't with us, so she proceeds down the hall screaming, "Roger, get up", loud enough to wake up the whole city of Hialeah. While eating breakfast, she usually reminds us that time marches on, and we better hurry up or we're gonna be late.

After breakfast we all go to our rooms and proceed to get dressed. It is now, about 7:30. For the next hour mother sticks her head out of the door every five minutes saying something like this, "Roger, hurry up and get out of the bathroom," (Roger likes to brush his teeth) or "Be sure to get the tie with the little brown speckles and the green lines in it. Finally when everyone is ready, we leave, and arrive at church around 8:30.

We only have an hour and fifteen minutes to wait, but as mother says, I though we'd never make it on time.

I Learned It The Hard Way-- First Day at HHS

By Linda Latourette

As I came into the building in a hustle of confusion I appeared poised, but I was scared.

When I finally got my schedule I told my sister I would meet her later at the center hall, where the funny big windows were. I just couldn't understand why there were windows in the middle of the hall.

When the day was finally over, after successfully getting lost six times, I went to meet my sister. At first I could not see her, all I saw was a gang of big, tall, (some cute, too) boys. Then I realized there was some confusion going on and the cause of it was in the center of the group. First I heard one boy ask, "And what are you doing?" An honest voice simply said, pleased with the attentiveness of the boys, "Waiting for my sister." And I thought Oh! no, it's Sandy. Another hunk of sheer anger said, "There is one rule we uphold around here, no one walks on the school seal," pleased even more with their attention, she answered, "Oh! thank you, I'll be sure and remember that." And then one of the boys who looked like he was going to bust from sheer anger said tartly, "You're now standing in the center of it."

I'm sure Sandy will always remember to uphold the rule of H.H.S. and the darling boys and stay off the school seal.

New Task For Staff

Who are the '59ers? Where did all these new features come from? The truth is, it's just the annual staff at work on their new project. Since the Hi-Ways has been sent to press the staff will dedicate this page to seniors for the remainder of the year.

Kathie Varner was elected Editor and will be assisted by George Ricker. The page will feature such items as senior personalities, coming senior events, and humorous features.

This idea was started by the annual staff of 1957 and proved to be a very successful venture. It will not only be an informative page, but an entertaining one as well.

When asked how she thought the page would turn out, Kathie stated, "As odd as it may seem, organizing an annual and a newspaper are two completely different tasks. I feel, however, the quality of the particular page will improve as we, the annual staff, gain experience."

Any senior who has interesting news may bring it to room 313 or give it to any annual staff member.

Sr. Play Sticks Feather in Hat

"Thoroughbred seniors have quite a feather in their cap this year as plans get under way for the 1959 class play, 'Lo and Behold'."

The Broadway hit, by popular playwright, John Patrick, will be on stage for the second time in this area of the country. "We've even beat a professional theater to the punch this time," claims drama director, Mr. Joe White.

The three-act comedy will run for two nights, April 2 and 3. A double female cast has been selected for the two performances, giving twice as many seniors a chance to participate.

Casting ran from February 3 through the 11th and the response, according to Mr. White, was "quite tremendous."

The following seniors have been cast: Jo Anne Bujold and Charlotte Harney as Daisy Durdle; Shirley Wells and Judy Seiber as Honey Wainwright; Sara Parise and Pamela Ball as Minnetonka Smallflower; Mike Willis as Milo Alcott; Mike Karpchuck as Dr. Robert Dorsey; Mike Powell as Mr. Wingate; Jay Burke as Jack McDougal; and John Burnett as Kenneth Moore.

Seniors Choose!

Senior Class President Bob Tafel released the news only a few days ago. Colors, flowers, and motto have been chosen.

Several good ideas were suggested, but these prevailed: the colors are purple, gold, and white; the flowers are white mums, and the motto is "An education is worth more than gold."

Joe Godfrey, Senior Class Vice-President said that he believes most seniors will approve of the choice which was made.

Opinions were given by several seniors as to what they think of the colors, motto, and flower.

Randy Harper made the statement, "I can't make up my mind until I have seen the colors. An optimistic senior, Andy Sullivan stated, "I think the colors are the greatest!" "The seniors show fine taste", was the comment made by Alan Corrigan.

Gomebody Soofed

By Judy Frazier

At a political banquet the speaker was to be a Mr. Sam Hoover. When the time came, the announcer arose to introduce him, saying, "And now, gadies and gentlemen, I mean ah—" He started again. "And now, ladies and gentlemen, it is my inner to honorduce—"

By this time laughter began but he was a brave man! "It is my privilege to introduce to you, my friends," he began and the people heaved a sigh of relief. The announcer smiled and regaining his self-confidence, he went on: "It is my privilege to introduce Mr. Ham Soover." Then he fainted!
