

Tribute to Two Great People

By Barry Highsmith

Nearly a score ago, they gave me life
 And began raising me with all their strife.
 They taught my heart to have an air,
 Nourished my mind to declare.
 Gave the Bible to my soul,
 Turned sickness to a healthy goal.
 Clothed me when I was nearly bare,
 Taught me to love and to share,
 And directed me in a word of prayer.
 Although, in death, they may flee, I shall always know
 They are in me!
MY PARENTS!

Tired Father Is Done Unto First

By Brenda Wooton

"Every morning it's the same thing," states Father. "Do unto others first, before they do unto you." Well, this is one morning I'm getting the bathroom first.

"First it's Brenda, and this takes between 30 to 40 minutes. You'd think Rock Hudson or John Saxton was going to pick her up, instead of the 'All American Boy,' Jay. Then after her, comes Jim and he takes at least 50 minutes to do his shaving!"

"Ahhh, at last . . . What? Oh, No!"

"Sorry, dear, you know what the golden rule in our house is. Get there first before the others do."

This goes on all week and you can tell that this is one day dear old Dad is determined to get there first.

"I'm tired of shaving on the bus, buttoning my shirt at 34th street and lacing up my shoes while taking my vitamin pill at the same time. This morning, I'll have the bathroom!"

"What's this? No one here? Ummmm, must be early. But, it's 8:20 and school starts at 8:30. The kids are going to be late."

"Dear," asked mother, as Dad stood there pondering the strange situation, "What on earth are you

Dale's Definite About His Ideas

Fixing steady blue eyes upon the math book he held in his hands, Dale Wallace spoke very seriously about his very definite ideas on marriage and going steady.

"I don't believe teenagers should get too serious about one another until the boy is in an occupation where he will be able to support a wife and later a family."

If grades were a problem about entering into Alabama State College, Dale would certainly have no problems! He has earned a membership in National Honor Society by the grades he's gotten, during his junior and senior year. He is also a member of Key Club.

As for Alabama State College, Dale is presently working on a scholarship to go there, and he hopes to be able to study engineering.

Many hours of enjoyment come to him through reading, dancing, stamp collecting and sports. He particularly likes novels by Hemingway and Steinbeck.

doing up so early? You know it's Saturday, you're day off!"

Reporters Are Ready Anytime

The air smelled of smoke and burning wood. Sirens wailed in the distance, and became gradually louder. Turning our heads, we saw that huge black billows of smoke were rising from the tops of the trees several blocks away.

There was a feeling in the air of excitement, and adventure tingled from our heads all the way down to the tips of our toes. Within a few seconds we were in the car hurrying to the dramatic scene, already surrounded by other people, of all ages and sizes, filled with the same sense of curiosity we were.

Because of the one-way streets, we were almost forced to park a block away from the object of all the attention. Half-stumbling in our high heeled shoes, we ran across a green, weed-filled field, filling our shoes with sand and dirt.

When we finally reached the charred, still smoking skeleton of a house, we found that it was in a terrible condition, and from the looks of it, it was likely to be unrepairable.

The horribly dilapidated structure belonged to a West Palm Beach Negro family of five. It had before been previously condemned. Keeping our eyes alert and open, we went in search of the fire chief. Milling through the crowd, we picked up little tid-bits of information and examined the house at a safe but most inquisitive distance.

The run down condition of the shack half-hidden by over-growth and weeds somewhat shocked us. It was easy to understand just why the house had previously been condemned.

We talked to the firechief later, and we were informed that this was the third time a fire had broken out in this same house. And they believed that the last time was probably caused by neglectfulness while cooking by flame. There was not electricity.

Three large fire engines and ten firemen had quickly and efficiently put out a large fire, and we, Bonnie Adkins, Lanny Fyfe, and Bonnie Chernault, three students from H.H.S. attending a Journalism Assembly at Palm Beach High School had practiced what we learned on the paper.

Saint Pat Was Quite A Fellow

Today is my birthday, Saint Patrick's Day, March 17. I'm not really sure it is my birthday. My friends the Irish just picked that day because all they knew about me was that I was born sometime in the first quarter of the year 459 a.d.

I don't remember too much about my early childhood but I do know that at the age of 16 I was taken prisoner by pirates and sold as a slave in Ireland. Around the age of 22, I escaped and walked 200 Roman miles.

I finally came upon a ship ready to set sail. I begged until the captain agreed to take me on as a ship-hand.

We had been out at sea three days when we came upon the land now known as Britany. We were stranded and starving for quite a while. I prayed to God for our safety and food. It was not long before a herd of wild hogs came by.

We were rescued and finally after many years I found myself home with my parents.

My importance in the history of Ireland and the Irish Church was the fact that I brought Ireland in touch with more of western Europe and that I introduced Latin into Ireland as the language of the church.

Bonnie Aims High For Chosen Career

With high-flying colors, black-haired, hazel-eyed senior, Bonnie Adkins, sets her aim high for a college education and eventually a stewardess job with Pan American Airlines.

Filling every hour with work fun and studying, Bonnie has outside time to spend practicing piano, collecting hi-fi classics and dixieland, designing fashions and managing part-time flying lessons.

Acting as parliamentarian of Honoria, a member of Aqua-Teens, playing clarinet in the marching band, and a reporter for the Record, keep Bonnie in a whirlwind of activity and very little time for home life. Several hours each month are devoted to her office as 3rd vice-president of the P.T.S.A. and MYF church work.

Sadly, Bonnie states, "I really have enjoyed these past three years at Hialeah and gained something to remember in the future. I regret leaving but I'm looking forward to attending Judson College for Women in Alabama next fall and making new acquaintances."

Bobbie's Voice Senior Choice

A beautiful voice, a well developed amount of knowledge, and a very magnetic personality are traits among traits which are outstanding in Barbara Sellers, senior, friend and loyal member of Hialeah High.

Bobbie belongs to the beautiful voice you hear at dances, parties, plays, and in other school productions. She has well earned a much used title of Top Senior Voice.

Barbara's years in Florida date all the way back to June, of 1941, her entire life. Born in Miami, she attended the North Hialeah Elementary, Robert E. Lee, and is now an outstanding member of Hialeah High. She has been going here since the eighth grade.

Barbara's career as a singer really took form when she became a part of the Sophisticates and the Trio, for the IZ Productions conducted by William Inglis and Robert Zander. She made her first recording with them in 1958, and gives everyone reason to believe it won't be her last each time she sings.

Her hobbies include Dick Marks, fishing, swimming, Tri-M work, and last but by far not least, her singing.
