

Hialeah Makes Premier Showing On the Grid Iron

As the lights shown brightly and the stands began to fill with students, the Hialeah Football Stadium was again in use, for the last time in the 1958-'59 season. The reason for all this excitement? Why, the Jr.-Sr. football game, of course.

While senior students were eager to view next year's Thoroughbred team, they were saddened by the thought of attending their last football game while in high school. The senior squad was made up of Doyle Peterson, Randy Harper, Mike Little, Bob Tafel, Bob Palladino, Bill McIver, Jerry Sullivan, Jim Smith, Richard Curwell, and Bill Palow and reinforced by Thoroughbreds of past years.

The first half was mainly defensive with only one touchdown to its credit. It was scored on a thirty yard pass from Quarterback Bucky Strickland to Jim Whitten. The try for extra point failed and the score stood 6-0.

The second half showed more action. Jim Whitten again scored for the Seniors and Bob Tafel went over for the extra point. Later in the half, Richard Curwell blocked a Junior punt in the end zone for a 2-point safety.

Nothing can be taken from the Juniors who played well during the entire game led by their captains for the night, Jim Karg and Terry Fernandez. The efforts of the Juniors were realized in the last few minutes of the game when Jim Karg intercepted a pass to set up their only T. D. After several plays and a pass to Larry Camp for a first down, halfback Doyle Watts scored from the 2-yard line. Bill Hamilton kicked the extra point and the score at the final whistle was 15-7.

The game was enjoyed by all, especially the senior players. They ended their high school career with a victory, proving the "men" were stronger than the "boys".

The underclassmen, however, should not feel the loss too greatly. They played a good game and will one day be "grads" themselves as they realize how it is to win the final game of their high school days.

'Lo and Behold,' Production Promises to Attract Many

This year's senior class play, "Lo and Behold", is in good hands, claims Thespian Fran Epstein. "Student directors Laura Likens and Donna Larsen are doing a wonderful job. They're practically running the whole show by themselves."

These "unsung heroes" have both had a lot of experience in Drama and rehearsals have been running smoothly. According to Minnetonka Smallflower, alias Pamela Ball; the cast is very well satisfied with their leaders. They know how to criticize without stepping on anyone's toes.

Many Thoroughbreds have been wondering where in the world this three-act comedy ever drew its name. "It's the key word in the play," explains Judy Seeber, "A signal used by the dead to locate the living!"

Tickets for the production, to be held April 2 and 3, may be purchased from any senior for the prices of 75 cents adults and 50 cents students.

Several schools have been forced to drop their senior class plays due to the lack of interest and enthusiasm. Drama director, Mr. Joe White, urges all Thoroughbreds to do their part by giving support and encouragement to this H. H. S. tradition, and not let it happen to us.

Visitors Greeted

The PTSA meeting of March 3, held especially for the Seniors was a success. Special guests were, main speaker, Richard Chambers, Dr. of Elementary Education, from the University of Miami; and HHS grads Bill Dunstall, class of '58, and Sandy Tierce, class of '57. Dr. Chambers gave a very interesting talk on college life with highlights on cost and fraternities.

He advised the students at the meeting to wait until their Sophomore year to join sororities and fraternities. He also said that the main reason for failure in freshman year can be contributed to two reasons: LACK OF STUDY and BADY STUDY HABITS.

Bill Dunstall and Sandy Tierce gave short talks that gave way to a question and answer session. Everybody who attended the meeting enjoyed and benefited from the program.

Seniors Spell Toward Honors

The National Office Management Association Spelling Program given on March 2 all over the country, was also given at HHS. Seniors, of course, were the only eligible ones to take this written spelling test given in Mrs. Jane McShane's room.

Out of this test a perfect paper was supposed to be chosen. In April they will try again on different words and the ones receiving perfect papers then, will receive a special award in the April Award assembly.

Young Imagination Has the Answers

Senior Carol Hamrick found this instance in Nursery School rather humorous:

In a nursery school a boy named Butch couldn't draw very well and seldom tried when the art period came. One day during art period Miss Rose noticed Butch's drawing. It was a well formed body of a horse. Miss

MIKE WILLIS and PAMELA BALL rehearse one scene from the senior play "Lo and Behold."

Hialeah Cage Stars Give Out With Opinions

Two boys, long-time basketball players and much in the headlines lately, give their opinions of things past and things to come in the basketball world of Hialeah High.

Dick Krtausch, who started playing basketball in a Hialeah league when he was twelve has this to say: "I think this season was the most enjoyable one we've had. Our record was better than ever before—18-4, and we were champions in our first year in the Gold Coast Conference."

"Next year's team should do well, too. Although they will miss Bernie, if they work together, they should have a well balanced team with such outstanding players as Glenn Parker, Tony Saladino, and others who will be moved up from J. V.'s. I sure hope they will enjoy as good a season as we have for the past two years and maybe grab the championship again."

"Couldn't have said it any better myself, Dickie, old bean," said Tony Cocco, a star player for the Thoroughbreds who got stage fright when asked for his opinion on the matter.

Senior Aptitudes Held by Florida State Employment

The Florida State Employment Service has been giving a series of tests to the seniors at Hialeah who do not plan to go to college after graduation.

These seniors are very fortunate in having the opportunity to take these tests, for if they took them after graduation or when they are out of school the minimum cost is thirty-five dollars.

The tests were given in room 422, beginning around 8:30 in the morning and lasting until approximately 11:45. After completing these tests, each of the students receive a work plan (What they are best suited for) and a small card which entitles them to the assistance of the Florida State Employment Service when they graduate in June.

These students were selected from information sheets filled out by them at a senior assembly in September.

A man walked into the doctor's office and said, "Doctor, I have celery growing on my head." The doctor quickly replied, "Well that's only normal." The patient came back with the answer, "Yes, but I planted carrots."
