

Success Depends on You!

Prom Has Memories

Imagine that this is spring instead of fall. Visualize laughter, dancing, and music. Imagine gowns of lavender, coral, and pink. Then think of a golden moon and twinkling stars.

A setting much the same as this could describe our Junior-Senior Prom, but a prom like this doesn't just happen. It requires a lot of time and work, most of which fall upon the juniors.

There are two ways in which the junior class plans to raise money. First they plan to sell magazines and secondly, they are aiding in the production of "Dear Ruth" and will get a percentage of the profits.

It is up to each junior to shoulder his responsibility by working on these fund raising projects; yet the success of this undertaking does not depend on the juniors alone. It also depends on the rest of the students.

How can other students help with the prom? They can help by subscribing to the magazines during the magazine sale, and by going to see the play, "Dear Ruth".

If you want to Junior-Senior Prom to occupy a big page in your memory book, then you should work to make it a success.

Know Alcohol's Effects

Alcohol and its effects can be seen nationwide and world-wide. It is not a stimulant but a depressant, it is a scourge, a plague, a bottle disease. It is responsible for the breaking of homes, the cause of many accidents and the dwindler of health.

Habits constitutes a large portion of our lives, so for a happy, healthy life, we must form the right types of habits.

The drinking of alcoholic beverages is a harmful habit that can ruin your life and give a disastrous effect on your friends and loved ones. As future citizens it is our future problem, and as all problems, it must be dealt with.

Rude Guest Earns Disrespect

No one appreciates a rude host, but a rude guest is thought even less of by everyone.

At a recent game in Hollywood there were a few Hialeah fans who let their spirit carry them a little too far. Throughout the whole game they acted as if they were doing everyone a favor by coming to the game, which was far from the truth.

This might seem of little concern, as it was only a small minority that acted in such a manner, but you must remember the few who made a poor showing will be those who are remembered.

These few students who have not shown Hialeah's best spirit would do well to stop a moment and think.

Notes From The Record

Before you indulge into that nice Thanksgiving dinner, bow your head and fold your hands to give thanks to the one who provided for you having that Turkey.

TAP-TAP-TAP:

Many of H.H.S.'s clubs have performed their good deeds of tapping new members into their respective clubs. Many stunts, gags, and tricks, were inflicted on the pledges by the old-faithful club members.

WORK, WORK, WORK

This seems to be the theme of Janette Wright and Wanda Capeletti as they perform their duties as helpers in the book store. Along with Miss Dolores Jordan, Mrs. Addie Frost, and Miss Katherine King, they are among H.H.S.'s unsung heroines.

Along with many innovations at Hialeah High are the Library tests given to determine whether a student needs help in library science.

Student PTSA Support Urged

The Hialeah High P.T.A. was created for the students and parents to promote better understanding, healthy student-teacher relationships, and to improve the school and community.

Yet, with all this in mind, how many of us belong to the P.T.S.A. AND attend its meetings?

Students as well as parents have the right to participate in the functions of the P.T.S.A. Nevertheless, the interest and attendance is low for both parents and students.

In a high school as large as H.H.S., with an enrollment of 2,400, the membership could, and SHOULD, reach 2000. For instance, Miami High, one of the top schools in Florida, with years of tradition and pride in scholastics, sports, and other activities, has a membership of 2,000 from an enrollment of 3,200. (As compared to Hialeah's 400).

What example and tradition are we setting for the students coming in the future years? Hialeah High is a wonderful, big school... our school, its heart overflowing each year with riches and warmth for its students. The hand is extended to us in every direction. Are we to turn away and not accept the responsibilities of true Thoroughbreds?

A school cannot become outstanding without student participation and interest in sports, scholastics, clubs, music organizations, and the P.T.S.A. All this is combined into an "all-round school", excelling in every area relating to education.

The Record and H.H.S. is asking every student to support and encourage the Parent-Teacher-Student-Association so that we may grow, as one body, into one of the finest educational institutions in Florida.

Varsity Athletics and You

To participate in athletics such as football, basketball, baseball, track, or gymnastics is a great honor but it also requires many months of hard work.

When you undertake the job of helping your teammates you are expected to do the best job you can and work as hard as possible at it.

If a coach makes you slave for three and four hours a day, you may feel that he is making it too tough for you, but you must tolerate it. If a player takes it upon himself to go out for a team, he should take everything the coaches hand out to him, and do it without arguments.

Everything a coach does is for the betterment of the school, and you should be glad to be a part of it.

Hialeah Paper Doll

SPARKLING BROWN EYES, a gay smile, and lots of pep symbolize junior Kaaren Bernhardt. Active not only in Anchor Club, she is well known as one of H.H.S.'s Varsity Cheerleaders.

Safe Driving Is Mature

Careless driving around Hialeah High School is not the big problem it was about two years ago. When H.H.S. was still a young school, police had to patrol the streets in order to prevent accidents. Now they seem to feel that we are mature enough to take the responsibility of promoting safe driving.

An example of careless driving happened two years ago. Two young boys on their way home from school were hit by a car in front of the auditorium. These boys got away with minor injuries. One was thrown against another car, and the other was sent about ten feet into the air.

The driver of the car? A girl of 15 who did not have a driver's license.

This is just one of the cases of careless driving that occurred when the school was beginning to take root. Now that we are mature enough, the police do not have to patrol the school to keep their eyes open for careless drivers.

Whether this keeps up or not depends upon you, the students of H.H.S. Keep safe driving a number one concern. Remember, careless driving is kid's stuff.

Be Healthy and Safe

Have you ever stopped to think how important health and safety are in our everyday lives? Can you think how they effect our personal appearance, the sports we play, the way we feel, and the things we do for other people?

A healthy person feels fit and wakes up in the morning honestly looking forward to the day's work and play. A pleasant disposition, vitality, and serenity are necessary if we truly want to rise to our highest powers. They come from proper sleep, food, bathing, exercise and other health habits. They're reflected in a good sense of humor and an interest in living.

To take good care of our own health is common sense; to safeguard the health of others as good citizenship. We, as American citizens should know and obey the rules that protect community health, but good health is only half protected if it is constant danger of accidents.
